Research Independence and Collaboration

The researcher may continue to pursue independent academic or research activities outside The ZSMC Co., subject to applicable intellectual-property, confidentiality, authorship, and conflict-of-interest requirements.

Participation in The ZSMC Co. does not by itself transfer ownership of independently developed work to the organization.

Where research is conducted collaboratively under The ZSMC Co., ownership, authorship, publication, data use, and intellectual-property arrangements should be established appropriately for the relevant project before material collaborative work is undertaken.
